SUPPLEMENTAL DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Claims 1 – 27, 30, and 37 are pending. Claims 19 – 23, 26, and 27 are withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to a nonelected invention.
2. The Applicant's amendments to the drawings and the Applicant's arguments submitted in the response are sufficient to overcome the objections to the drawings set forth in the previous Office Action (response, page 8).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
4. Claims 1 – 9, 16 – 18, 25, 30, and 37 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lombardi et al. (4,103,518) in view of Ploch et al (3,837,943) for the reasons of record.
5. Claims 10 – 13 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lombardi et al. in view of Ploch et al. as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Richards et al. (5,557,950) for the reasons of record.
6. Claim 24 stands rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lombardi et al. in view of Ploch et al. as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Callaway for the reasons of record.
7. Claims 14 and 15 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lombardi et al. in view of Ploch et al. and Richards et al., as applied to claim 10 above, and in further view of Wood et al. (US 2002/0124365 A1) for the reasons of record.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments filed January 26, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicant argues that the rejection based on Lombardi et al. in view of Ploch et al. could not be combined to create the claimed invention because Ploch et al. discloses a heat-sensitive stitching thread which is used to sew two fabric layers together and not used to stitch loop yarns into a base layer (response, page 9 – 11). However, Ploch et al. does not disclose stitching two fabric layers together with a heat-sensitive yarn. Instead, Ploch et al. discloses a stitch-bonded fabric, such as the fabric described in US 3,168,883 or those fabrics produced on a Malimo machine (column 1, lines 12 – 28). As is shown in the figure of US 3,168,883, a loop yarn is attached to a base layer, by a stitching thread. Therefore, the stitching thread disclosed by Ploch et al. is interlocked with the loop yarn to create a pile structure on one face of the base layer. This would be similar to the stitch yarn taught by Lombardi et al. which interlocks with the loop to connect the loop yarn to the base layer of the pile fabric. Further, Ploch et al. discloses that using a heat sensitive stitching thread helps makes a stronger bond between the loop yarns and the base layer and improves the stability of the entire fabric (column 1, line 60 – column 2, lines 4). Ploch et al. also discloses that using a shrinkable material as the stitching yarn creates a bulkier fabric (column 4, lines 3 – 4). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary to substitute the heat-sensitive stitching thread taught by Ploch et al. for the stitching yarn taught by Lombardi et al. because Ploch et al. teaches that using a heat-sensitive yarn creates stronger bonds between the loop yarns and the base layer and creates a bulkier fabric. Therefore, the rejection is maintained.

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 1771

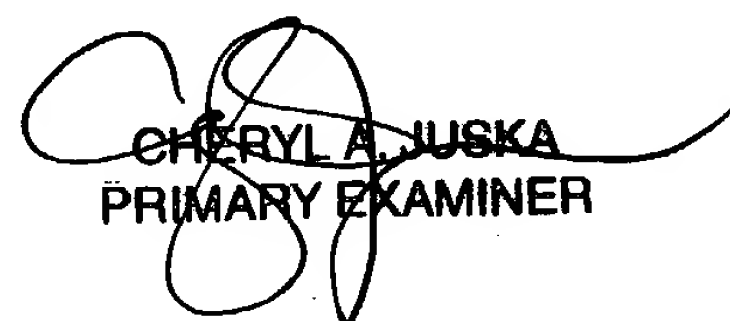

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
